

CODY SIMS

SELKIRK FIRST NATION
WOLF COUNCILLOR

Inye Dochi, my name is Cody Sims, I am running for Wolf Councillor in the upcoming Election - April 5th, 2023, in Pelly Crossing, Yukon.

I am a member of the Egunde (Wolf) Clan. My traditional name is Dek'a kin nadhat (man stands in front).

Family values are important to me, my family was small but supportive, my family taught me good qualities and work ethics- to aim high and value my teachings, my mother Lori Sims has taught me the value of respect and to be a positive role model, my father George Gill has taught me to strive to be the best I can, and my Stepfather Dwayne Smith has guided me and taught me the traditional way of life.

My grandparents are the late Sarah Sims (Roberts) and Greg Sims. My great grandparents are the late Maggie Baum and Luke Roberts. After graduating from high school and completing my PSE studies in Whitehorse, Yk, I returned home to Pelly Crossing where I was employed with SFN in the Recreation Program and as an Education Assistant. Two positions that gave me useful tools.

On April 1st, 2020, I was honored to be elected as the Youth Councillor for the past 3 years, where I learned a great deal of knowledge and skills. With that, it would be a privilege to continue my role in supporting you on April 5th, 2023, as your Wolf Councillor.

I AM COMMITTED TO MAKING A DIFFERENCE

After serving a term as the Youth Councillor, I have heard the importance of having good leadership qualities that contributes to positive outcomes. I have raised the issues and offered driven solutions. My skills and work has proven that I'm capable of contributing to developing a self-sufficient nation full of opportunities for growth. The world is advancing, and we should too. I am passionate about the role, and I want to continue serving our people, our government, and our nation. It is important we start with looking at the current situation to ensure the vision meets the needs of all citizens- new vision, new future, improving conditions guided by our constitution. I am ready, committed and will strive to do my best as we work together and move forward together. Mussi cho
