Wolf Councillor

Julia Joe is a proud citizen of the Selkirk First Nation Wolf Clan.

I am a big advocate in support, guidance, and teamwork.

One of my greatest learning is from the Elder's teachings.

I value sharing our Elders words of wisdom and teachings.

RAISED IN CULTURE

She was raised with strong cultural teachings by her parents, Danny Joe and the late Betty Joe, and by her grandparents and Elders who instilled in her the values of respect, humility, teamwork, and service.

WHAT LEADERSHIP IS ABOUT

A proud mother of three and grandmother of eight, Julia understands that leadership is about creating a healthy, supportive future for our children and grandchildren. Her life has been dedicated to strengthening families, supporting youth, and improving wellness in our community.

A LIFETIME OF SERVICE IN EDUCATION

For 24 years, Julia worked at Eliza Van Bibber School as an Educational Assistant and in Education Support. She worked directly with students and families, helping youth build confidence, improve academically, and feel supported in their learning journey.

Julia believes education is more than textbooks and classrooms. It is about mentorship, encouragement, cultural connection, and helping each student see their potential.

She knows that when we invest in education early and consistently, we strengthen the future of our Nation.

WELLNESS IS THE FOUNDATION

Julia also served as a Community Health Representative, advocating for holistic health and prevention services. She believes true wellness includes mental, emotional, spiritual, and physical wellbeing.

Her training includes:

- Wellness Counsellor training
- Recovery Coach certification
- Heal Your Life Coach training
- Instructor Program certification

Julia understands the challenges our people face and believes Council must prioritize accessible wellness programming, recovery supports, youth prevention programs, and culturally grounded healing initiatives.

When our people are well, our Nation is strong.

GUIDED BY DÄN K'I – “OUR WAY OF LIFE”

Julia believes governance must reflect Dän K'i
— Our Way of Life. The four guiding principles:

- Care
- Sharing
- Teaching
- Respect

These principles should guide every decision made at Council..

- ✓ Care means putting families and mental health first.
- ✓ Sharing means making programs accessible and inclusive.
- ✓ Teaching means investing in lifelong learning and skill development.
- ✓ Respect means honoring our Elders, language, culture, and traditions.
- ✓ Leadership must reflect who we are as a people.

LEADERSHIP THROUGH TEAMWORK

For good health, Julia has always been involved in running activities, and recently entered the Bannock Burners in the Klondike Road Relay, and found such inspiration as a coach for a team.

She believes strong communities succeed the same way strong teams do — through unity, accountability, and support.

Julia also enjoys curling, sewing, arts and crafts, traveling, and spending time on the land — staying connected to culture, language, and traditional teachings.

STRENGTHENING EDUCATION & WORKFORCE PATHWAYS

Julia recognizes that one of the biggest challenges facing our community is creating stronger pathways from education to employment.

She supports:

- Bringing trades and certification programs into the community
- Expanding licensing and hands-on training opportunities
- Creating job-ready programs for youth and adults
- Building bridges to trades, engineering, and skilled professions
- Increasing mentorship and career guidance supports

By delivering services locally, we reduce barriers and create real opportunities for our people to succeed. Education and wellness work together — confident, supported individuals are ready for the workforce.

IF ELECTED, JULIA WILL FOCUS ON:

- Strengthening wellness and mental health programs
- Expanding education supports for youth and adults
- Increasing recovery and prevention services
- Bringing trades, licensing, and workforce training into the community
- Embedding Dän K'i into governance
- Ensuring programs are culturally grounded and community-driven

Her vision is a strong, healthy Nation where education, wellness, culture, and opportunity are accessible to all.
